

Phrases to know

When you feel a terrible pain inside your head, you can say:

I have a headache. = Ik heb hoofdpijn.

He / she has a headache. = Hij / zij heeft hoofdpijn.

When you have a pain in your leg, you can say:

His / her leg hurts. = Zijn / haar been doet pijn.

The nurse says:	You say:	Say it shorter:
Your leg is broken .	I have broken my leg.	I've broken my leg.
Your shoulder is twisted .	I have twisted my shoulder.	I've twisted my shoulder.
You hurt your head.	I have hurt my head.	I've hurt my head.

My leg hurts because I fell off my bike.

Your feet hurt when you walk too much.

His heartbeat is high because he has done too much running.

Her arm is broken and she is taken to hospital.

Nice to know

First aid at school: If children have hurt themselves at school, they tell a teacher. Schools have a 'First Aid' or 'Medical' room where children can go for help or to get a plaster. If someone is seriously hurt, the teacher might have to call a doctor or an ambulance.

Words to know

a bandage	een verband
a five-car collision	kettingbotsing met vijf auto's
a toothache	kiespijn
accident	ongeluk

ankle	enkel
bad	slecht
bite wounds	bijtwonden
chest	borst
chickenpox	waterpokken
disease	ziekte
feel sick	niet lekker voelen
fever	koorts
flu	griep

headache	hoofdpijn
healthy	gezond
heart	hart
hospital	ziekenhuis
illness	ziekte
injured	gewond
lungs	longen

medicine	medicijn
mumps	de bof
operation	operatie
plaster	gips

shoulder	schouder
skeleton	geraamte
spots	vlekken
stomach-ache	maagpijn
temperature	temperatuur
the dentist	de tandarts
the sore spot	de zere plek
tired	moe
to blow your nose	je neus snuiten
to break a bone	een bot breken
to breathe	ademen
to cough	hoesten

to have a cold	verkouden zijn
to hurt	pijn doen
twisted	verdraaid
victim	slachtoffer